1 · PERMISSION — ask first; it makes everything after usable

- ☐ OK to quote them by name + title on the TidyTool website
- ☐ OK to take / use photos of the product in use on the website

Confirm name / title / organization spelling

2 · TESTIMONIAL — ask, then stay quiet and write their exact words

In a sentence or two, what does the product do for you / your team?

Before vs. after having it — what's the difference?

If someone asked “should I get this?”, what would you tell them?

Best line of the conversation — the one to actually quote:

3 · CASE STUDY — get concrete, with numbers where possible

BEFORE: how did this work previously? What did it look like?

What problems did that cause? (lost items, time, cost, accountability)

THE INSTALL: how much / what was set up? Which tools or areas?

AFTER: what's different in a normal day now?

Rough numbers — time saved, fewer lost items, faster checks?

Any benefit beyond organization? (discipline, training, safety, pride)

4 · PHOTO SHOT LIST — check off as you go

- ☐ Product mounted / in use at a station (wide)
- ☐ Close-up of a tool pocket / the CNC-cut detail
- ☐ A person using it (get verbal OK first; minors may need a release)
- ☐ Empty board showing a missing tool (the accountability angle)
- ☐ The contact with the product (optional — a face for the quote)
